

ACCIDENTS IN WESTERLY

Charles Palmer Crushed by Being Caught in a Belt—Gas Overcame Frank Trimback—Funeral of Deacon Dunn—Rumored Big Purchase by the Griscoms—Ten New Divorce Cases For Superior Court Session.

Charles Palmer, 21, employed in the Westery shirt factory, suffered a serious accident Saturday morning, the result of which cannot be definitely determined. He was at work near a belt that connected with the main shaft of the plant when his shirt was caught by the belt and he was hauled up to the main shaft. His body became wedged between the shafting and the ceiling so firmly that the machinery was stopped. Fortunately, just at that time the less powerful of two engines was being operated. Had the larger engine been in use he would have been crushed to death as he must have been forced through the small space above the main shaft. Quick assistance came to Palmer. The machinery was reversed and he was extricated. Dr. Scanlon was summoned and prepared the injured young man for the Rhode Island hospital, there being no facilities available in Westery to treat such cases. Palmer's right arm was terribly lacerated and it was feared that it would have to be amputated. The thumb was completely crushed and there was a compound fracture of the radius and ulna, both bones projecting through the flesh, and there was also a fracture of the humerus. He received many bruises and contusions. Thomas L. Chapman accompanied Palmer to the hospital, returning late in the afternoon. Mr. Chapman says that the surgeons at the hospital think amputation will not be necessary unless blood poisoning or some other complication sets in.

Frank Trimback, an employee of the C. B. Cottrell & Sons Co. plant, had a narrow escape from asphyxiation Friday afternoon. The large tank used as the receptacle for crude oil was practically empty and before a new supply arriving Mr. Trimback decided to clean the tank from any foreign substances. He had been at the tank quite a while when a fellow workman called to him and, receiving no response, went into the tank and found Trimback in an unconscious condition, having been overcome by the gases that formed through a mixture of the air and the crude oil. Medical attendance was promptly summoned and Mr. Trimback gradually recovered consciousness. He was able to resume his duties at the big plant Sunday morning.

The funeral of Deacon Edward Maxson Dunn took place Saturday afternoon at his residence in Haverham, suburban to Westery. The service was conducted by Rev. P. C. A. Jones, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, of which the deceased was senior deacon, assisted by Rev. Joseph L. Peacock, a former pastor of the church. Both ministers made eulogistic remarks, giving expression of the esteem in which Deacon Dunn was held by those who knew him, and of his many virtues as a Christian gentleman. The bearers were his son, Edwin R. Dunn of Westery, Capt. Herbert O. Dunn, United States navy, Frederick Dunn of New York city, and a grandson, Ralph Dunn of Westery. Burial was in the family plot at River Bend.

There was a report current in Westery Saturday that the Griscom family had purchased the New Watch Hill house, and that it was planned to raze the hotel building and erect a number of large cottages on the site and property. It was also reported that the Griscoms had purchased the Columbia hotel property, but this was authoritatively denied by Walter Price, the managing owner.

The Griscoms purchased the old Larkin house several years ago and the grounds connected therewith and the place now contains some of the largest and handsomest summer residences at Watch Hill. The Griscoms have already given contracts for the erection of three large cottages during the winter on their property in the vicinity of the golf grounds. In connection with the report it was given out that the property owners at Watch Hill, as a rule were favorable to making it an exclusive summer colony of city people who owned or leased cottages, and that one hotel would be ample to accommodate such a colony.

The usual drills of the Fifth company, Westery, in common with the other commands of the Rhode Island national guard, will be resumed September 20 in the various armories throughout the state. The target practice season will be extended to include Thursday, October 2. Slow fire, to include 500 yards and rapid fire and skirmishing will cease on Saturday, September 28. The other four days will be devoted exclusively to the 300 and 1000 yard ranges, upon which there will be no practice until the 20th inst.

Howe's London circus was in Westery Saturday, and attracted the expected crowd to witness the street parade which was in keeping with the size of the aggregation, which is not as colossal as the big show of the same name of years ago. The tent performances in the afternoon and evening were up to the standard of the ordinary circus, with all the usual circus stunts, but there was an absence of anything that was new and startling. There is, however, a side show connection with features that should not be tolerated, aside from the section for bearded men only with tom tom music, there is a plain out and out swindle, a game of chance where the player has a chance in a thousand or more to win, but a swindling game that found a number of victims in Westery and some for a large amount of cash.

It is the musty perfume and envelope game with the combination of R and the V and I, which the manipulator operates to win for the cappers and to lose for the descendants of E. Z. Guy. Games of chance are a natural accessory to the circus side show, but the swindling game as carried on in Westery, or rather in Pawcatuck, for the circus was on the Connecticut side of the Pawcatuck river, was away beyond the limit of what should be permitted even under the elasticity allowed to circus shams.

The September session of the superior court for Washington county will convene today (Monday) at West Kingston and the first day of the session will be devoted to grand jury cases and to motions and assignments. While only capital cases are considered by a grand jury in Connecticut, all criminal cases are considered by that jury in Rhode Island. The cases in which the grand jury will be asked to bring in indictments include an embezzlement case and a number of liquor cases and for breaking and entering and larceny.

Tuesday is the divorce day and in addition to the long list of divorce cases that have been accumulating there are ten new cases. There are

NO MORE GRAY HAIR.

Sage and Sulphur Remedy For Dandruff? Faded and Gray Hair.

The old idea of using Sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers had dark, glossy hair at seventy-five, while our mothers are gray before they are fifty. Our grandmothers kept their hair soft and glossy with a "Sage Tea," which also restored the natural color.

One objection to using sage as a preparation was the trouble of making it. This objection has been overcome by the Wyeth Chemical Company of New York, who has placed on the market a superior preparation of Sage, combined with Sulphur and other valuable remedies for dandruff, itching scalp, and thin, weak falling hair.

The beauty of the hair depends more on its rich, even shading than anything else. Don't have dry, harsh faded hair, when a simple, harmless remedy will bring back the color in a few days, and don't be tormented with dandruff, itching scalp and loose, falling hairs. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy will quickly correct these troubles, and give color, strength and beauty to your hair.

eighteen new actions at law, the longest list at a single session for years. There are four new equity cases and eight new complaints. The docket follows: Willis H. Arnold vs. Daniel Spink, first case, September 18; Laura E. Wilkins vs. Adelaide Hoberton, same day; George E. Wood vs. Clara Kimmmer Henry, same day; William Prodat vs. Wakefield Mfg. Co., September 19; Clement A. Griscom vs. Frank Larkin, September 20; Isaac R. Robinson vs. Charles W. Hall, same day.

Town Solicitor Harry B. Agard gave an opinion at a special meeting of the Westery town council that, notwithstanding the fact that Louis H. Eddy held liquor license for the Dixon house it was legal to issue another license for the same place, and further that it was perfectly within the law to transfer the liquor license of J. Frank Champlin of the Ocean house at Watch Hill to Bernard J. Pendleton, the new manager of the Dixon house, as he was a citizen of the United States and a resident of Westery, though he had been in the town but three weeks. With this legal decision from the town solicitor the council voted to authorize the advertising of the transfer to Mr. Pendleton, and a public hearing will be held at the specified time. It was also voted to exempt the property of the Westery Shirt company for all improvements for a period of ten years and to reduce the present taxable property from $42,000 to $35,000.

In the matter of removal of the trolley station at White Rock and the stopping of cars at the crossing, which was brought to the attention of the council at a previous meeting by a delegation from White Rock, was taken up to give Superintendent Kehoe of the Norwich & Westery Traction Co. an opportunity to be heard. He said that the waiting station was removed from the old location on account of the way in which it was abused, the windows being smashed and damage done the building. He gave as reason for not having the cars come to a stop at the crossing was the expense. He said the cost of stopping the car on the east trip was 11 1/2 cents and on the west trip 17 cents. The council took no action.

The proposition of Frank W. Coy in regard to giving a strip of land in connection with the rebuilding of the Shore road was given further consideration. Mr. Coy said he would withdraw the part of the proposition that referred to the removal of soil, and thus lessen the cost. Civil Engineer McKenna, who with Capt. William F. Sanders, is the committee on securing the land in connection with the rebuilding of the state road, said that the appropriation was inadequate to carry on the work as planned. The whole matter was referred back to the committee. It is probable that an additional appropriation will be asked for at a special town meeting.
